This year-long course is designed to give students in Geography and Planning programs some exposure to potential professional career opportunities, by having them work on group projects for external organizations related to their studies in human geography, physical/environmental geography, GIS, or planning. Our primary objective is to help students in our programs explore various options for the professional application of their studies. It provides an opportunity for students to explore their career options and goals and to develop networks and skills to help them succeed in the workplace. In addition to their group placements, students will engage in a variety of classroom activities that will complement their professional experiences, including, but not limited to a series of mock collaborative problem solving exercises facilitated by various professional experts.

Course Instructor: Dr. Richard DiFrancesco

Teaching Assistant: Sneha Mandhan